HOAGLAND'S
NEW PATENT SHAFT COUPLING!
W. E. COOPER

HAS PURCHASED THE RIGHT FOR THIS County of the above Patent, and will hereafter use it in the construction of all the Vehicles manufactured at his extensive

Carriage Factory,
Corner of Second and Morrison Streets.

He respectfully refers to the following

CARD.

Having examined the New Patent Shaft Coupling invented by H. R. Hoagland, we feel pleasure in informing the public that in our opinion it is the safest and best method of connecting shafts or tongues to all vehicles that has ever been used.

It fastens without bolt or screw, and is therefore easily and speedily separated. It rests on Gutta Percha so as to be entirely free from the rattling sound which so often disturbs restless horses. It is easily changed so that the shafts or tongue may be detached in an instant, and is convenient, safe and secure.

It is easy to change to this style of coupling any buggy or other vehicle now in use, and with small expense. We have come to the conclusion to use this new invention ourselves and recommend its use in all cases. We consider it far superior to the Brewster Patent, heretofore considered the best in use.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN]

EASTERN DATES TO MARCH 7

Congressional

WASHINGTON, March [illegible] In the Senate the memorial of N. [illegible] Trist for compensation for negotiating the treaty with Mexico was presented and referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

The Military Committee was ordered to report the facts of the Indian massacre of the Brick surveying party in Nebraska last summer.

Morton introduced a bill to admit Texas to representation in Congress. It imposes the same conditions as in the case of Virginia. Referred to the Judiciary Committee. Also a joint resolution giving officers of the army on detached military duty in institutions the same pay and allowances as though in active service. Referred to the Military Committee.

Harlan, from the Committee on Indian Affairs reported a bill which provides for carrying into effect the treaty of July 1866 between the United States and Cherokee Indians. It provides for the purchase of all the lands of the Cherokees in Kansas, and those lands in the Indian Territory west of the ninety sixth meridian, for the sum of $2,000,000.

The funding bill was taken up. Bayard opposed the establishment of foreign agencies. He attributed the difficulty afflicting the country to the financial policy of the Republican party in issuing paper currency and in the exemption of new bonds from taxation and the expenses of $12,000,000, which, in connection with their issue is grossly excessive. One third of the amount, he thought, would be a liberal outlay. Howe spoke in criticism of the bill. He thought the funding provision supererogatory as all the authority that could be conferred on the Secretary of the Treasury by Congress was given by the act of April 12, 1866. He also objected to the proposition compelling the new banks to take four per cent bonds while the existing banks should have four and a half per cent.

The Senate took a recess till evening.

At the evening session bills passed appointing managers of the National Asylum for Disabled Volunteers, and authorizing the Secretary of War to take charge of the Gettysburg and Antietam national cemeteries.

The funding bill was then proceeded with. Corbett advocated his proposition for the issue of thirty five year bonds, bearing interest for the first three years at six per cent, the next six years at five per cent, and the next six years at four and a half per cent, and the following twenty years at four per cent. This would insure a uniform bond.

Cole made some remarks on the necessity of the prompt extinguishment of the national debt and opposing any postponement of its liquidation.

Scott gave notice of an amendment which he proposed to offer. Adjourned.

In the House a number of bills were introduced and referred, among which was a bill for the speedy removal of political disabilities from all citizens of Mississippi, and a bill to divide California into two judicial districts.

Clarke introduced a joint resolution for the organization of a Territorial government for the Indian Territory, and the full recognition of the Cherokees and Choctaws as citizens of the United States.

Washburn, of Wisconsin, offered a resolution authorizing the Postal Telegraph Committee to inquire into the whole subject of telegraphing in the United States, and to send for persons and papers. The House refused to second the previous question—41 to 75, and the resolution went over.

Sawyer offered a substitute for the Cessna resolution instructing the Military Committee to inquire into the appointment of a military cadet from Boston and a naval cadet from New York, both credited to the Sixteenth Congressional District of Pennsylvania. Logan said the resolution conflicted with the action of the House last week. As it affected ex-members, the House refused to order the main question and the resolution went over.

A resolution was offered by Bingham for the payment of counsel fees, etc., incurred by Butler of Massachusetts, in defending a suit brought against the United States by Charles Wooley for his action as a member of the House, etc., not to exceed $2,000, referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Various resolutions of inquiry were presented.

A resolution was adopted instructing the Committee on the District of Columbia to report a bill repealing the charters of Washington and Georgetown and provide a system of government bringing everything relating to the Capital of the country under the more direct control of Congress and the Executive.

Stokes, rising to a privileged question presented a resolution allowing Golladay to withdraw his resignation to the Governor of Kentucky, the latter having refused to receive it. He desired the resolution to be referred to the Judiciary Committee. The Speaker read a letter from Mr. Golladay, stating that he had withdrawn his resignation and was inviting the fullest investigation into any charges against him; also, a telegram from Gov. Stevenson refusing to accept the resignation, on the grounds that it was his duty to demand such investigation. A discussion ensued on the propriety of receiving the resolution. Finally the House decided, in accordance with the view expressed by the Speaker, that the resolution involved no question of privilege. Golladay being a stranger to the House and no longer a member of the House, therefore he refused to entertain the resolution. Davis of New York offered a preamble setting forth the importance of determining the question whether a member present during the session may resign his seat without the consent of the House and thereby evade his duties and responsibilities, and a resolution instructing the Judiciary Committee to inquire and report what action or rule is necessary for the determination of the question.

The House resumed consideration of the Georgia bill. Paine offered an amendment that nothing in the bill shall be construed to prolong or renew the term of office of the Representatives from Georgia. Beckwith withdrew his substitute believing no legislation necessary. Bingham offered the bill and offered an amendment that nothing contained in the bill should be construed to vacate any office now filled in Georgia either by election or appointment nor extend the official term of any officer nor deprive the people of Georgia of the right to elect Senators and Representatives in 1870. He declared he would count himself dishonored and a perjured man if he ever recorded his vote in favor of the bill. Without these limitations he believed the passage of the bill would endanger the Fifteenth, Fourteenth and perhaps the Thirteenth Amendments. Davis of New York advocated the bill and defended the character of Gov. Bullock.

The Speaker announced a number of appointments on various committees and the House adjourned.

Whittemore a Candidate for Re-Election

CHARLESTON, S. C., March 7.—Whittemore publishes a letter defending his sale of cadetships and announcing himself a candidate for re-election. He says recent developments have satisfied him that his resignation was a hasty and unnecessary step. He says: "I gave myself time that the day after my resignation he did not report a resolution of censure instead of expulsion, because he did not believe my motive was wrong. He hoped I would be returned to Congress and he would be the first to welcome my return."

Senator Revels delivers a lecture

BALTIMORE, March 7.—Senator Revels [illegible] lectured to-night in Bethel Church to a good audience, the fourth of which were white. The lecture was [illegible] on the [illegible] and welfare of the colored race and was replete with practical sound advice. He [illegible] education and economy and [illegible] the colored people must be true to the country, themselves and the Republican party.

NEW ORLEANS, March [illegible] The Legislature met in extra session to-day.

New York News.

NEW YORK, March [illegible] The reception to Seward took place at the City Hall this afternoon. He made a brief speech complimentary of the city and the metropolis of the Western Continent.

The trial of McFarland is set for the first Monday in April.

John A. Phillips, an Englishman, for a long time past Deputy Collector of Internal Revenue in the Fifth District has absconded. Further having it is discovered defrauded the Government of $30,000 during the past ten months.

Miscellaneous

M[illegible]is, March [illegible] The steamer Great Republic [illegible] running up last note and captured the tug [illegible] Two of the crew were drowned. The captain and another were saved.

[illegible] March 7. The United States Marshal received instructions from Washington to divide the eastern district of Mississippi into districts preparatory to taking the new census.

[illegible] Me., March 7. Republican Mayors were elected to-day in Rockland, Saco and Auburn. A Democratic Mayor at Bath. A Lewiston [illegible] but the Republicans had a plurality.

WASHINGTON, March 7. [illegible] was nominated to-day as U. S. Marshal for Idaho. The House Committee on roads and canals has agreed to report a bill authorizing the construction of a railroad from Norfolk, Va., via Louisville, to St. Louis. The capital stock is $40,000,000.

J. J. Paul, Minister from Venezuela, died suddenly to-day of apoplexy. He only arrived this morning, and his arrangements were just made for an interview with the Secretary of State.

CHARLESTON, March 7.—The steamer Eagle from New York to Havana is aground on Bodie Island. It is feared she will be a total loss. The passengers and crew are doubtless saved.

BY THE CABLES

LONDON, March 7.—The fact is encouraging, that sailing vessels which left New York before the City of Boston are just arriving. The managers of the line think the steamer's engine broke down soon after sailing and she would be obliged to depend on sails with which she was not very well supplied.

Dispatches from Rome report that the antagonists to the Papal infallibility dogma of the council, some of whom had threatened to withdraw, have now determined to remain in view of the growing opposition to that dogma.

The French officials have as yet produced no evidence of the existence of the plot against the State and the life of the Emperor, and the report is now considered a fabrication by the police.

A meeting of the representatives of the Press Association is summoned to consider what action is required of public journals in consequence of the continued mismanagement of the telegraphic service of the postal authorities.

In the Commons, the Irish land bill was the special order. Gladstone opened the debate by stating that measures for the protection of life and property in Ireland would follow the land bill. He then moved a second reading. Bryan, member from Kilkenny, in moving a second reading of the bill, to take place in six months hence, expressed regret at the inadequacy of the [illegible], and in this connection he [illegible] that the lease tenure of thirty years was insufficient for the emergency. Distress for rent must, he said, be abolished, and tenants must hire directly from the owner. The member from Tipperary, while applauding the motives which had governed the Ministers, and the general outlines of the bill, seconded the motion of Bryan. Hargate, member from Londonderry, in opposition to the bill, demanded of the Government a representative instead of a conciliatory policy on the Irish question. The debate was monopolized by the Irish members. Fortesque, Chief Secretary for Ireland, defended the bill as the simplest and most complete remedy yet presented for the ills of Ireland, for it would greatly enlarge the proprietary interest among the agricultural classes. Ball, member from Dublin University, said the bill perpetuated a vicious system which violated the principles of political economy. On compensation it was sound, but the rate was too high. Bargains binding on posterity, with unalterable conditions, were bad. Ireland's only want was institutions as beneficent as those of England.

DUBLIN, March 7.—Great preparations are being made in the north of Ireland for the reception of the Prince and Princess of Wales.

BERLIN, March 6.—The weights and measures of Germany are to be assimilated immediately. Coinage is also to be established on a more convenient basis.

MADRID, March 6.—In the Constituent Cortes, on Saturday Prim reaffirmed his opposition to the Duke de Montpensier, and declared that the entire Ministry with the exception of Admiral Topete, were anti-Montpensier. His statement has given the latter gentleman offence, and he has tendered his resignation, but it has not yet been accepted. The Unionists are furious against Prim and are doing their utmost to encourage Topete. A ministerial crisis is imminent.

PARIS, March 7.—Renan has been restored to the Professorship in the College of France.

CALIFORNIA

From San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, March 7. The case of Chas. Yomans vs the Contra Costa Steam Navigation Co., was called for trial in the Twelfth District Court to-day. Action was brought to recover from the defendants damages in the sum of $40,000 for injuries suffered by the explosion of a locomotive at Haystack near Petaluma, Aug. 27th, 1866.

At an early hour this morning, officer Fitzgerald saw three men attack a young man named Marshall Hastings. They knocked him down and robbed him of his gold studs and sleeve buttons. He caught one near the spot and afterwards arrested two others who are charged as being guilty with him. Their names are Murray, Gavin, and Ward.

PEABODY'S PARSIMONY. The following is an extract from the eulogy of George Peabody, pronounced at the grave by Robert C. Winthrop:

It would be doing grievous injustice to our lamented friend were we to deny or conceal that there were elements in his character which made his own warfare in this respect a stern one. He was no stranger to the love of accumulation. He was no stranger to the passion for gaining and saving and hoarding. There were in his nature the germs, and more than the germs of economy and even parsimony, and sometimes they would sprout and spring up in spite of himself. Nothing less strong than his own will, nothing less indomitable than his own courage could have enabled him by the grace of God, to strive successfully against that greedy, grudging avaricious spirit which so often besets the talent for acquisition. In a thousand little ways you might perceive to the last how much within him he had contended against, how much within him he had overcome and vanquished. All the more glorious and signal was the victory. All the more deserved and appropriate are these trappings of triumph with which his remains have been restored to us. You rob him of his richest laurel, you rob him of his brightest crown when you attempt to cover up or disguise any of those innate tendencies, any of those acquired habits, any of those besetting temptations against which he struggled so bravely and so triumphantly. Recount, if you please, every penurious or mean act of his earlier or later life which friends have ever witnessed, if they ever witnessed any, or which malice has ever whispered or hinted at—and malice we know has not spared him in more ways than one—and you have only added to his titles to be received and remembered as a hero and a conqueror. As such a conqueror those who have received him from that majestic turreted iron-clad which the gracious monarch of our mother land has deputed as her own messenger to carry him back to his home. As a conqueror you have canopied his funeral with the flag of his country, aye with the flags of both his countries, between which may God that his memory may ever be a pledge of mutual forbearance and affectionate regard. As such a conqueror you mark the day and the hour of his burial with minute guns and fire a farewell shot as the clods of his native soil are heaped upon his breast.

Frederic Julius Otto, well known from his excellent works on chemistry, died Jan. 4th of this year at Brunswick, Germany. He was one of the most famous of the scientific men of the old world and was an undoubted authority in his specific branch. In his death the whole world has sustained a great loss.

CURRENT NOTES

Forty columns of announcements of petitions for the repeal of the franking privilege have appeared in the Congressional Globe.

George Fox, a man of considerable wealth, died a few days ago in New York, leaving property valued at about $400,000 to the Government, for the liquidation of the national debt. His relatives are contesting the will.

The Philadelphia Telegraph looks with disfavor upon the proposal that Pennsylvania should pay some $3,000,000 to the unhappy farmers who were bereft of fence rails, fat pigs or poultry when the border counties when the rebels invaded the State. Other prominent papers in Pennsylvania take the same view.

Prof. Tyndall has a theory that the blue color of the sky is, or may be, produced by particles suspended in the air, which are not only invisible to the naked eye, but irreducible by the highest powers of the microscope. He demonstrates their existence by the light which they scatter, even after they have passed utterly beyond the range of the microscope. In other words, the heavens are made of dust.

A history of the Union Pacific railroad and the Credit Mobilier now being published in New York contains an affidavit from an ex-director of those institutions, showing that up to June 1868, the profits of the Credit Mobilier amounted to the enormous sum of $62,000,000, without the expenditure of one dollar of their own money, all the capital being furnished by the Government and the public, who bought first mortgage bonds.

It is said that from the conversation of individuals, members of Congress, it is not very probable that the income tax will be abolished altogether. But it is very evident that some important change will be made in the law. The proposition in reference to it, which appears to meet most favor, is that of enlarging the sum to be exempted, to say $2,000 or $2,500. This, it is claimed, would relieve the large class of business men and clerks, who now complain of the oppressiveness of the tax.

The National Association formed for the purpose of securing such an amendment to the Constitution of the United States as will recognize therein the existence of God, and indicate that we are a Christian nation, invited all American citizens who favor such an amendment, to meet, without distinction of party or sect, in Convention in Pittsburg, Penn., on Thursday, the 3d day of March. Hon. William Strong, just confirmed as Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court, is President of the Association.

A Washington dispatch of February 17th says: Two members of the Ways and Means Committee had some talk last evening with the President, and the remarks made were to be repeated to the full Committee. He said that last fall he was of the opinion that we would do better to go on as rapidly as possible in buying up and cancelling our bonds, so as to reduce our debt, and in this view had recommended that we hold our tax and tariff rates generally at the present figures so as to have a large surplus for use by the Secretary of the Treasury, in cutting down the indebtedness. He had thought a good deal about this matter, he continued, and had somewhat changed his opinions as to the policy that should be pursued. He was satisfied that it would be better for the country to have a reduction of taxation, that the people were anxious for it, and that Congress could not well do less than grant this expectation. In his opinion we might make a reduction of twenty millions in the receipts from internal revenue, and he would very readily sign bills looking to such a reduction if passed by Congress. Something was said about the Funding bill now before the Senate, and he remarked that he himself was not so confident as some persons seem to be that we can negotiate a par loan at four and a half per cent. interest. It might be well to pass the bill, but he doubted if we could do much under it this year.

Condition of the "Lost Cause"—Emigrants in Brazil

[From the New York World, Feb. 25.]

Just after the close of the war, the aversion felt by considerable numbers of the Southern people for the pattern of our national flag impelled them to emigrate. Some went to Mexico, and some to Honduras, but the largest number went further and fared worse—that is, they went to Brazil. That Government needed immigrants, and it held out to our discontented fellow-citizens inducements of a very valid sort. It advanced the money to pay their passage thither, to be returned after a period, promised to place them, free of immediate expense, upon fertile lands, of which they were at liberty to acquire a [illegible] on easy terms. Hundreds, perhaps thousands, availed themselves of this opportunity to take a long sea voyage, and at its termination inherit a land of milk and honey. Many of them were persons of education, not exactly qualified for the rude work of digging a plantation out of a tropical jungle; many had families, and nearly all were penniless. The result is what any prudent and sensible person might have foreseen. The entire emigration scheme is a most hopeless and dreary failure; some have begged their way home, some have come back as waiters in the cabins of steamships, some shipped as sailors, and many have been unable to return even upon these hard terms. The few American residents of Rio have been taxed to the utmost of their means to provide for urgent cases of destitution among their countrymen, and a cry reaches us from some of the exiles imploring Government aid in returning to their abandoned homes. It is not likely that the Government can be induced to engage in the business of bringing back its impoverished refugees, but private generosity may heed the lamentation of our compatriots, poor and friendless and in a land of strangers. There are among them old men and helpless women and little children, and their situation is such as to excite the deepest commiseration.

Vagaries of a Party Organ

It is only a fortnight since that the Herald was in ecstasies about the Portland, Astoria and McMinnville railroad bill That paper went further than any other in Oregon in lauding the project In its opinion the construction of this road would do much to make Portland the great center of trade between the Atlantic States and China and the Indies Our Senators, it stated, were entitled to the thanks of the people of Oregon for passing it But suddenly the Herald has changed front Some politician of its party has evidently given it the word of command right about face, and it has obeyed It now asserts that the project which it pronounced so enthusiastically for two weeks since will be ruinous to Portland, and the action which it then thanked our Senators for taking it now denounces them for Then it uttered the first favorable word for Senator Williams which ever appeared in its columns, now it accuses him of plotting in this bill against west side interests and declares that his action in the matter should defeat his re-election. So gracious was the Herald a fortnight since, and so truculent is it now! The bill which was to make Portland "the great center of trade between the Atlantic States and the Indies," as that paper told us a few days ago, is now, according to the same valuable authority, nothing but a "transparent political humbug" What are we to believe when our oracle is so inconsistent in its utterances?

It may hardly be worth while to notice in detail the inconsistencies of the Herald on this subject; but some of its statements are so unfair and erroneous that persons who are not acquainted with the whole facts in regard to recent railroad movements may be misled by them. Therefore we give a few extracts from the Herald's article of Tuesday, with comments thereon. After speaking of the litigation between the east and west side roads, it goes on to say:

It was confidently hoped that in the end we should see both roads in operation throughout their proposed length This hope was strengthened by news that a bill had been introduced in the lower House of Congress by Hon. J. S Smith providing for a land grant to the west side, similar in amount to the grant supposed to be already enjoyed by the east side. It was hoped by the west-side counties that this bill would pass without delay, and they confidently looked for the vigorous prosecution of work in their jurisdictions early in the spring. We can well imagine, therefore, with what surprise and indignation the news was received that Williams, instead of supporting Congressman Smith's satisfactory bill, had proposed one of his own, which provided for a boomerang railroad to Astoria, with a bobtail branch to McMinnville.

From beginning to end this extract abounds with erroneous insinuations. In order to expose them fully, it is proper to say in the first place that the Astoria, Portland and McMinnville bill was not prepared by Senator Williams. He had no hand in preparing it. It was prepared, if not directly and wholly by Mr. Gaston, the President of the west side company, at least with his advice, counsel and assistance, and was at his instance placed in the hands of Williams, who introduced it in the Senate. The bill, therefore, whether good or bad, emanates directly from those representing west side interests; and if it is so bad a bill as the Herald would now make it, the censure of its origin must fall where its paternity belongs.

Again, we are told that the news was received "with surprise and indignation" that Williams, "instead of supporting Congressman Smith's satisfactory bill, had proposed one of his own." Inasmuch as the bill introduced by Williams was drawn up by west side men and introduced nearly a month before Smith's bill was thought of, we fail to see where the "surprise and indignation" come in. How could Williams support "Smith's satisfactory bill" so long a period before the said "satisfactory bill" had emanated from its author? The Portland, Astoria and McMinnville bill, drawn up as we have shown, by the aid and counsel of Mr. Gaston, was already before the Senate. Williams had already put it through the Committee on Public Lands, and was ready to call it up at any moment when opportunity might offer. In this shape matters stood, when Smith conceived the idea of defeating the whole project, destroying all the chances of the west side for obtaining a land grant, throwing the blame of the whole matter on Senator Williams, renewing the railroad controversy with more fierceness than ever, and gaining a party advantage by it. Therefore he put in his visionary bill At first the Herald had not acumen enough to see the trick that Smith was playing, and continued to advocate the bill introduced by Williams; but finally, on becoming acquainted with Smith's scheme, no doubt through letters from Smith himself, it shifted right about, went back on the project which it had declared was destined to make Portland one of the great commercial centers of the country, and began its advocacy of Smith's bill for a grant of land where no land can be obtained.

We have said that a land grant on the basis proposed by Smith's bill would give rise to litigation at once The Herald does not see how any litigation could arise, and wants an explanation. That paper, with its usual lack of knowledge of the geography of the State, seems not to know that such a grant would overlap the grant claimed by the east side. The Government has already given orders for the withdrawal of these lands from market, as belonging to the east side company who have completed the first section of their road Does the Herald suppose that the east side would not resist an attempt on the part of another company to take possession of these lands? And would not this resistance give rise to litigation? Can any one suppose that capitalists would advance money on bonds based on a land grant which was known to be thus hampered at the very outset? What then, would Smith's bill be worth as a basis for building a railroad?

But we cannot pursue the Herald's vagaries further In fact that paper should be required to adhere to one line of policy for at least half a moon to entitle it to anybody's serious notice

Which is the Higher Authority?

Col Chapman, in that pamphlet which he has just issued as a bid for a nomination, has much to say of the woes the people suffer by the oppressions and exactions of the bondholders In this he follows a custom of his party But is it not possible that he may be mistaken in his assumption that rich men only are owners of bonds and that the masses of the people have none of them? Let us call a high Democratic authority as a witness on this point "It is a mistake," said the late Democratic candidate for President, in March, 186[illegible] in answer to those of his political friends who were clamoring for greenback inflation and other destructive measures "It is a mistake to suppose that they (the bonds) are mostly held by capitalists Large sums belonging to children and widows under the order of the courts or the action of trustees, have been invested in Government bonds. The vast amounts held by fire and life insurance companies and savings banks are, in fact held in trust for and are the reliance of the great body of the active business or laboring men and women * * * The whole amount held in the State of New York in various forms of trust will not fall below $200,000,000 If we look into other States we shall see that only a share of these bonds are held by men known as capitalists but they belong, in fact, if not in form, to the business men, the active and the laboring classes of society The destruction of these securities would make a wide-spread ruin and distress, which would reach into every workshop and every district however humble We pit Horatio Seymour against Col Chapman and the Democratic press of Oregon Which is the higher authority?

Editorial Notes

The debates in the New York Legislature, now in session, are pleasant reading For several days recently the Democratic Assemblymen enlivened the debate on a bill relative to elections by directly charging each other with securing their seats by deliberate fraud

The colored vote throughout the Union is to be organized at once, and not in the Democratic interest The vote of Maryland is estimated at 40,000, which, under the amended Constitution, will revolutionize the politics of that State The same result is probable in Kentucky and Delaware, the former will cast nearly 50,000, and the latter about 5 000 of these new votes.

The Democratic party, as represented in Congress, opposes all grants of land for internal improvements. In view of this fact is it not the height of impudence for Democratic organs in Oregon to be dictating in the matter of land grants? Suppose there were a Democratic majority in Congress, who supposes that, in that case, we should ever obtain a grant of land?

The Democratic paper at Eugene wails thus "How long, Oh God, how long shall the eyes of the white people of the United States be closed to the hellish iniquities of their oppressors? When will the spirit of Tell and Winkelreid rise like a Phœnix from the ashes of our liberties, and swear on their blades, if necessary, that America shall be a White Man's Country?" Pity the sorrows of a "[illegible]" Democrat!

THE WEST.

The publication of the Tri-Weekly Statesman, (Walla Walla,) has been resumed

The amount of assessable property in Deer Lodge county, Montana, is estimated at $2,000,000.

The Omaha Herald of Feb. 22d says A herd of 3,000 buffalo crossed the track of the Union Pacific above Laramie on the 18th inst., going southeast. It was believed they were driven down by the Indians, and a party of hunters started in pursuit.

Mr Oates, a Democratic member of the California Legislature, has been blowing a good deal against the fifteenth amendment. It appears that a colored gentleman in Nevada City has had Mr. Oates for a business partner for some time, and is so indignant at his partner's course that he threatens to dissolve the establishment

A Democratic paper in California objects to the "ruinous policy" of donating public lands for railroad purposes. Of course, California having got all she wants, objects to any being given to those who have none. Senator Casserly of that State acts on the same generous principle If Congress were Democratic our State would obtain no land grants at all.

The Oakland, (Cal.,) Transcript has the following: We learn by private advices that Hon A D Bonesteel, of the Pioneer Beet Sugar Works, at Fond Du Lac, Wisconsin, has completed arrangements with the capitalists of San Francisco to establish a factory in this State They are to furnish $100,000, and he the machinery The works will probably be erected somewhere in this county.

A letter from Fort Shaw, Montana, says: "I am confident that the Indians will not soon trouble us again. Some of them who were not killed by the soldiers did not escape their just fate otherwise. 'Pote' is prostrated with the small pox, and perhaps dead at this hour. 'Black Eagle' is badly wounded through the hips 'Crow Top' is dead of a wound received in a fight with the Gros Ventres."

A Deer Lodge paper of Feb 11th says A letter from Frank B. Decker to Mr John Coffee, of Deer Lodge, dated Cedar Junction, Jan. 29th, principally on matters relating to a business venture at Cedar, in which they are partners, says, 'the diggings are good without a doubt. One thing sure this will be the best camp in Montana" Frank Decker is one of the best and most reliable of our Deer Lodge miners The Walla Walla Statesman says that many at that place are preparing to go to the Cedar Creek mines.

OREGON

The number of pupils in the public school at Eugene is 180

The Statesman gives an account of depredations committed in the Salem cemetery by visitors at that place

The Dallas Republican makes a creditable appearance Politically it is sound, and ought to do much for the Republican cause in Polk county.

The Dallas paper says that a numerously signed petition, asking for a new mail line from Salem via Lincoln, Bethel and Coopersville to Sheridan, has been forwarded to the Department

The name of Democratic candidates in Lane county is legion, and even the Democratic Guard says that the poor masses are getting very sore handed,—so great is the amount of hand shaking

A man named Blum, who resides in St. Helens, fell a few days ago while going on board one of the O S N Co's boats He struck his shoulder against the deck The joint was dislocated and he was otherwise injured

From the Mountaineer Mr Thomas Gordon living at Gordon's Bridge, on the Deschuttes river in this county sold last week to a party from the upper country, fifty seven head of horses at $40 per head, realizing the snug little sum of $2 280 00

On the 16th February the following resolution was adopted by the lower House of Congress That the Commissioner of Indian Affairs be instructed to transmit for the information of the House the report of the Indian Superintendent A B Meacham upon Indian Affairs in Oregon dated January 20 1870

The village of Lewisville situated twelve miles south of Dallas, on the Great Luckiamute Polk county, is a place of considerable business It already contains two stores and a third one is to be opened soon A church is being erected there this spring A rich farming country surrounds the place and insures it a permanent support

The Mountaineer has intelligence from Grant county to the effect that during last week snow fell several feet in depth on the Blue Mountains in the vicinity of Canyon City and that the miners are jubilant over the prospect they have for an abundance of water the coming season Times are somewhat improving and money is becoming more plenty. Some two thousand head of hogs have been sold during the winter to the Chinamen, who appear to be much increasing in number in that county Barley and oats are worth two cents per pound, pork 22 cents beef 16 cents, flour 5 cents, potatoes, 2 cents Stock of all kinds look well, and the grass is excellent and never better at this season of the year

The Cuban Ambassador,

New York, March 8 —Gen. Quesada has written for the Cuban Junta a report of operations of the Cuban army during the opening scenes of the war. He claims that the governments of the United States and Great Britain are ignorant of what has happened in Cuba, in consequence of the facility with which the Spaniards can disseminate false reports. The General is expected in Washington to-day, and it is believed he will wait on the Secretary of State and present his credentials as Cuban Ambassador There is much excitement among Cubans here and in Washington on the subject, as a number of influential members of Congress are represented to favor Quesada's pretensions

THE NUMBER OF GROCERY STORES IN PORTLAND is about sixty with an average of three men to each and about twenty [illegible] making a total of one hundred and eighty men and twenty teams constantly employed to wait upon eight thousand people Estimate the labor per man at three dollars per day In one year it would amount to $197 100 and the rents keeping of horses taxes licenses etc at three dollars per day for each store, and you have $65 700 more making a total of $262 800 annually for expenses alone This is why the grocer must make [illegible] twenty per cent [illegible]

Brief Mention.—Temperature yesterday about 48 degrees, with a south wind and a [illegible]

The statement published last evening that a blind boy of Mr McG[illegible]nn the baker was severely burned by falling upon a stove is altogether [illegible] correct.

The Sunday prize fight [illegible] have been arrested. One of them is out on bail and the other in default of security is in jail.

Prof. Plummer the humorist has gone to the Dalles.

A team attached to a milk wagon ran away on Fifth street yesterday morning and for a time the [illegible] ran with milk but nary honey.

The dredger under charge of Captain W[illegible] is about to be put to work again at Swan Island.

Dealers in drugs paints oils etc would do well to consult the advertisement of [illegible] & Co., the oldest dealers in that line in [illegible] city.

The County Commissioners will meet for business, at one o'clock this afternoon.

The grading of Morrison street is nearly com[illegible] Several of the old graded streets are being repaired, under the direction of the Street Commissioner.

Can't Spare the Time.—The editors of this paper are in frequent receipt of letters from various parts of the State, which the writers desire to see in print, accompanied with some such request as, "Please correct all errors of grammar etc and publish." We are glad of course to receive letters from our friends when they have news to contribute, but we have no time to rewrite correspondence. In the majority of cases the work of "correcting errors" amounts to rewriting the entire letter. This, we have not time for. Thus letters which have some merit, frequently go to the waste-basket simply because they did not come in proper shape for use. Correspondents should learn to send to newspapers only such letters (for publication) as can go to the [illegible] without being "doctored." Send on your letters give us all the news, but do not be surprised or [illegible] if they are not printed. If they have a single grain of wheat among the chaff which nearly all letters have, we shall find it and use it.

Oro Fino Theater.—The Gregorys at Oro Fino had a rather smaller audience last night than usual, but the performance was none the less excellent and varied. Master Albert performed the perilous feat of walking a globe up a spiral inclined [illegible] ceiling and back again. There were the usual varied acrobatic and gymnastic feats, and new songs, and dances by Miss Bessie, the [illegible] dogs and ponies, the whole concluding with the splendid comic pantomime of Mother Hubbard, in which are introduced with startling [illegible] a number of necromantic and magic acts [illegible] calculated to excite wonder and all [illegible]. Lecture of Gov Woods

[illegible]

Delivered before the Young Men's Christian Association at [illegible] Hall last evening.

[illegible] Woods delivered last evening the second lecture of the course for the benefit of the Young Men's Christian Association of which the following is a synopsis:

He [illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible] paper that civilization in its rise and development [illegible] fixed laws and yet the student [illegible] history must be struck with the regularity and certainty of purpose [illegible] onward march. In treating of this matter he did not propose to deal with [illegible] the [illegible] confine himself to the progress of American em[illegible]

It is not true as claimed by [illegible] that our systems are borrowed or copied from their models. Our systems are independent [illegible] ideas and [illegible]. A Frenchman [illegible] Englishman brought within the influence of American ideas becomes thoroughly Americanized and his ambitious heart and life become [illegible]. Thus we are absorbing the strength, energy and life of European civilization.

A Republican form sustained by a pure religion is the highest type of human government. [illegible] such a form, sustained by the religion of the Bible the only pure religion the world has ever known. Therefore our government is the highest type of the world's civilization. But there is a principle within it which the political economist and the statesman cannot ignore and which can never be overcome climatic effects. Though living under one constitution we have our North and South our East and West with characteristics so distinctive as to require all the deep philosophy and statesmanship of all sections acting in harmony to preserve national unity. Warm climates through processes of [illegible] tend toward monarchical forms of government. Cold climates to individuality and personal independence. Thus we have the fiery Southerner and the cold headed Northerner representatives of their two sections. The recent war grew out of the philosophical and natural antagonisms of these two types of men—the result of a natural law, intensified in its operations by local interests. The ostensible cause has been removed but the scientific causes still exist and will continue to exist. The law of antagonism can only be modified in its operations by the multiplied means of intercommunication—railroads telegraphs etc. Great and radical as are the differences between the North and South they are little if any greater than between the East and West and much less potent than those of the [illegible] upon American civilization. The East is the cradle of American ideas, the West the field in which they are amplified and carried into full grown operation. The East, the quarry, the West, the place where the rocks are hewn into shape.

European civilization was once the highest existing type. Ours came from Europe and has outstripped all the world. As is the relation between the old world and the new so is that between the East and the West of America. The East challenges admiration for much but the West claims a crowning superiority for vastness, might, energy. Compare Boston with Chicago, Philadelphia with San Francisco. The former stand sober clinging to the ideas of a hundred years ago the latter vigorous, bold, trampling antiquated ideas in the dust and marching resistlessly onward to seize upon the crown of empire. Time was not long since when the engineer who established a railroad route across the Alleghanies thought he had achieved immortality, but how his work sinks into insignificance compared with the great Pacific railway?

Old communities naturally encase themselves in fogyism; new ones naturally expand into the spirit of toleration, liberty and equality, hence Progress. As in politics and commerce so in religion. It is in the West only that genuine religious toleration is found. The West will yet teach the East religious toleration and freedom of thought. The achievements of the East thrill every genuine American heart with pride but henceforth the West is to be the theatre of American energy and development. It may be thought idle declamation when it is said that the Pacific slope will yet be the seat of American Empire, but the assertion is supported by philosophy and the experiences of the past.

Here the speaker referred to the satire of John Randolph upon Henry Clay's "Mighty and growing West." With all his sagacity how little did he know of the future.

The Pacific States and Territories with a population of 1 214 379 have an area of 917 254 square miles while the whole of Europe with a population of 197 609 240 has only an area of 3 092 152 square miles. The former has only a fraction of one to the square mile, while the latter has over 63. With the same population the mile as Europe, we should have nearly 75 000 000, without taking any account of Alaska. Here followed several comparisons of areas.

But the power of the Pacific is in its productive soil, genial climate, mighty rivers, spacious harbors, forests, mines of gold, silver, iron and copper, fisheries, fields of grazing and everything which can be utilized for the good of man. And we are upon the verge of realizing "the good time coming." After a long period of inanity we are rousing to the work of development and to reach forth for the great destiny that the future holds for us. Here is to be the theater of the mightiest achievements of civilization. Our part in the work is to encourage enterprise, purify and keep pure our governments and communities and unite as one for the general public good. Nature has done much for Oregon; she has left much for us to do.

The speaker enumerated the principal wants of the country dwelling, however mostly upon railroads as chief among them. He thought it inevitable that all enterprises of that sort now mooted must be eventually accomplished, while others not now spoken of will spring up and be carried to successful issues. He favored the policy of giving liberal land subsidies, not only for the sake of the enterprises themselves but for the development of the great Pacific domain.

In acting our part we must learn to be self reliant, not only as individuals but as a State. We must not lean upon the pillars of success which California has built, but must build our own. With our great "River of the West" as a channel of commerce, we may with well directed energy, build up here an Empire State. The mission of the people of Oregon and of the Pacific coast, viewed in relation to all the surroundings is to be a sublime one. A bright and glorious future awaits us. Henceforth the names of Oregon and California and Nevada and their sister States upon the Western coast shall be the synonyms of strength and beauty and grandeur and their great achievements shall stand forth as the most resplendent gems in the nation's crown of glory, the light of which shall go sparkling down through the ages giving joy and gladness to the hearts of all the lovers of liberty forever.

Railroad Matters are very likely to be lively this spring. The East Side Company will engage a large force of men to complete their road to Albany and the West Side Company will very probably build a [illegible] of their road in order to obtain a land grant to facilitate the building of their line to McMinnville. Kohn & Fishel are keeping up with railroad times. Their stock of spring goods coming across the continent by rail will be the largest and finest stock of Clothing ever imported to this State. Their stock in store now is offered very low to make room for large arrivals. They are manufacturing the neatest Boys' Suits and always have on hand a large stock of the same which are offered at lowest figures.

U. A. O. D.—Regular meetings of Morvin Grove No 2, on Thursday evening of each week at 7½ o'clock in Druid's Hall Front street near Stark. Members of Sister Lodges and sojourning Brethren are cordially invited to attend.

A Body and Mind Diseased

Such is dyspepsia. The stomach and the brain are too intimately allied for the one to suffer without the other so that dyspepsia and despondency are inseparable. It may be added, too, that irritation of the stomach is almost invariably accompanied by irritation of the temper.

The invigorating and tranquilizing operations of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is most powerfully developed in cases of indigestion. The first effect of this agreeable tonic is comforting and encouraging. A mild glow pervades the system, the chronic uneasiness in the region of the stomach is lessened and the nervous restlessness which characterizes the di[illegible] is abated. The improvement is not transient. It is not succeeded by the return of the old symptoms with superadded force as is always the case when unmedicated stimulants are given for the complaint. Each dose seems to impart a permanent accession of healthful invigoration. But this is not all. The aperient and anti billious properties of the preparation are scarcely secondary in importance to its tonic virtues. If there is an overflow of bile the secretion is soon brought within proper limits and if the biliary organ is inert and torpid it is toned and regulated. The effect upon the discharging organs is equally salutary and in cases of constipation the cathartic action is just sufficient to produce the desired result gradually and without pain. The Bitters also promote healthy evaporation from the surface which is particularly desirable when sudden changes check the natural perspiration and produce congestion of the liver, coughs and colds. The best safeguard against all diseases of bodily vigor and this the great Vegetable Restorative essentially promotes.

DECISION IN BANKRUPTCY IN U S DISTRICT COURT

MOTION TO REJECT THE CLAIM OF A CREDITOR [illegible] A PAYMENT RECEIVED AFTER PETITION [illegible] BUT NOT A PREFERENCE WHEN THE TAKING OF A PREFERENCE WILL [illegible] OF THE CREDITOR'S [illegible] OBJECTIONS TO CLAIMS MUST BE MADE BY THE ASSIGNEE, UNLESS THE COURT OTHERWISE DIRECTS

U S District Court—District of Oregon Monday, March 7, 1870

In the matter of Randall & Sunderland [illegible] voluntary Bankrupts in Bankruptcy

On January [illegible] 1869 Randall and Sunderland being insolvent assigned all their property to Foster with intent to evade the B Act. On January 30 the firm of Einstein Bros & Co doing business in San Francisco filed a petition in bankruptcy in this court against R and S, praying that they might be adjudged bankrupts on account of such assignment and on February 27 after a hearing upon the petition and answer thereto R and S were duly adjudged bankrupts for the causes stated in the petition

Afterwards Einstein Bros & Co having proved their debt amounting to $[illegible] 183 56, Winfield Peters, a creditor who had also proved his debt moved the court to reject the claim of Einstein Bros & Co for reasons stated in his objections, then filed thereto. Thereupon an order was made referring the matter to Mr Register Hill with leave to Einstein Bros & Co to answer the objections within a certain time

Before the Register Einstein Bros & Co answered the objections to their claim and the objecting creditor demurred to such answer

The Register reported, in effect, that the objections were not well taken and that the motion to reject ought not to be allowed. The motion is now before the court for final disposition

From the report of the Register it appears that on February 2 1869 Einstein Bros & Co received at San Francisco $450 in coin from Foster on account of R and S and that they had a good reason to believe at that time that R and S were insolvent and that their attorney then resident in Portland acting under instructions to take such course as their interests required, had on January 30, commenced the proceedings in bankruptcy wherein R. and S were adjudged bankrupts and that before the objections of said Peters were filed said Einstein Bros. & Co had offered in writing to surrender to the assignee of the estate of R. and S the said sum of $450, and that afterwards they paid said sum to said assignee

For the objecting creditor it is claimed that this case comes within section 39 and that therefore the debt is forfeited and should not be proved

That section provides, among other things that an insolvent debtor who makes any payment with intent to give a preference to one or more creditors shall be deemed to have committed an act of bankruptcy, and upon the petition of certain creditors may be adjudged a bankrupt therefor — provided such petition is brought within six months after the act of bankruptcy shall have been committed. And if such debtor shall be adjudged a bankrupt, the assignee may recover back the money or other property so paid * * * provided the person receiving such payment * * * had reasonable cause to believe that a fraud on this act was intended and that the debtor was insolvent, and such creditor shall not be allowed to prove his debt in bankruptcy. In the case under consideration the payment was made after the petition was filed and therefore not within six months prior thereto. Neither was such payment the act of bankruptcy on account of which such petition was brought and adjudication had.

Taken as it reads this section does not include the case of a payment after petition brought. In morals, I admit, that there is no difference between a creditor who takes a preference before petition filed or afterwards, and on this ground it has been argued for the motion to reject that as this preference is within the mischief intended to be provided by the section, it should be construed so as to include it. If the premises were admitted the conclusion might follow.

So far as the creditor is concerned, a payment or transfer of property by a debtor, after petition brought, is a mere nullity, and the same or its value may be recovered back by the assignee, independent of sections 23, 35, or 39, because from the commencement of the proceedings in bankruptcy, by operation of law, the property of the bankrupt of whatever nature, not exempt from execution, vests in the assignee, and therefore the former can make no valid disposition of it, (Sec. 14. B. Act.) Einstein Bros. & Co acquired no property or interest in the money paid or delivered them by Foster. They were mere bailees of it and the assignee could have compelled them to return it or its value, without reference to their claim against the estate. Besides this, the debtor making a payment or transfer after petition brought is liable to be punished by imprisonment at hard labor for not exceeding three years (Sec. 44, B. Act.)

A payment or other disposition of property by a debtor after petition brought against him is not a preference within the meaning of the act but simply an unlawful meddling with the property of the assignee. It confers no rights or interest on the party receiving it and renders the debtor liable to imprisonment.

Preferences are provided for in sections 23, 35, and incidentally in 39

By 23, a person receiving a preference "any time after the approval of the act" having reasonable cause to believe that the same was made or given by the debtor contrary to the act, shall not prove the debt on account of which such preference was given until he surrenders to the assignee all benefit received by him under such preference. By its terms this section includes all preferences whenever made or given, and leaves it optional with the creditor to surrender and prove his debt or retain his preference and be excluded from making such proof. But as will be seen, section 35 necessarily limits the operation of this section to cases of preference received more than six months prior to petition brought, because section 35 declares all preferences made within this latter period absolutely void and as by section 14 all the property of the bankrupt is vested in the assignee from the time of filing the petition against him this section cannot be construed to apply to the case of a payment or other disposition of property by the bankrupt after such filing because the same would be void for want of interest in the bankrupt, and could not give the creditor the option to surrender or retain it.

By 35 all payments or other disposition of property by an insolvent debtor, made "within six months before the filing of the petition by or against him" are declared void and the assignee may recover the same as assets of the bankrupt

All payments or other dispositions of property within the purview of this section are void, and the person or creditor receiving them cannot retain or surrender them at his option, as in the case of a preference within the purview of section 23 but no penalty is imposed upon him for receiving the same

Section 39 goes farther and after providing for what causes and under what conditions a debtor may be adjudged a bankrupt declares that the creditor receiving the preference and thereby participating in the fraud which constituted the act of bankruptcy for which the adjudication was had, shall not be allowed to have his debt

In Re Princeton (1 Law Times 12) Mr Justice Miller of the Wisconsin District suggests the reason why section 39 imposes a forfeiture of the debt upon the creditor taking a preference contrary to it. He says

"This prohibition as to the creditors (forbidding the proof of their debts,) is predicated on the adjudication in bankruptcy upon the allegation in the petition against the debtor. And the creditor having reasonable cause to believe the alleged violation of the act by the debtor, is considered a participant in the offense against the act, and is therefore prohibited from proving his debt in bankruptcy * * It cannot be permitted to a creditor who, with reasonable cause of knowledge has participated in such fraud on the act, to be found a proceeding against his debtor to relinquish his intended preference and claim to prove his debt under the 23 or any other section of the Act.

This reasoning seems to assume rather than to assert that the forfeiture imposed by this section is confined to the case of a creditor who received a preference which constituted the very act of bankruptcy upon which the adjudication was had

The language of the last clause of the section gives some color to this conclusion. It declares — the assignee may recover back the money or other property so paid, conveyed, sold, assigned or transferred contrary to this act — that is the money paid by the insolvent debtor to the creditor with intent to give a preference and which payment constituted the very act of bankruptcy in contemplation — provided the person receiving [illegible] had reasonable cause to believe [illegible] and such creditor shall not be allowed to prove his debt etc. Apparently these expressions — the money so paid — such payment and such creditor — refer to the money or payment which constituted the act of bankruptcy for which the petition was brought and to the person or creditor who received such money or payment and thereby became a participant in the fraud for which the debtor was adjudged a bankrupt

But I am not satisfied that the clause should be so limited in its operation. Indeed it appears but just and reasonable that it should apply to any creditor who has taken a preference contrary to the act within six months before petition brought although such preference did not constitute the act of bankruptcy for which the adjudication was had provided the person receiving such preference does not voluntarily relinquish the same but puts the estate to the trouble and expense of recovering the property or its value by legal proceedings. The reasons for forfeiting the debt in the case supposed are equally as cogent as any that can be given in the case of the creditor whose preference constituted the act of bankruptcy. In each case the creditor's conduct has been illegal and in addition to this innocent parties have been thereby put to unnecessary trouble and expense to obtain their rights

It may be necessary to support this view of the section that the words of the last clause — the money or other property so paid etc —should be construed to read any money or other property so paid, etc

However this may be one thing seems certain. This case is not within any of these sections regulating the subject of preferences. From my general knowledge of the case of R & S, I suppose that Foster sent this money in the course of business to Einstein Bros & Co before petition filed and that the latter received it afterwards from the express without knowledge of such filing, the petition having been brought by their attorney. They could not well help receiving the money from the express, but as soon as they could conveniently they delivered it to the assignee

The motion to reject the claim must be deemed at the costs of the objecting creditor

It will be observed that this proceeding is not taken by the assignee, but by a creditor. No objection has been made to it upon that ground, and for the present it may be considered as well taken. But upon reflection I am quite satisfied that the act does not contemplate that every creditor shall have the right to object to every other creditor's claim. This, it appears to me, is the proper business of the assignee, who represents the estate and all parties interested. Otherwise the door is opened wide to any and every petty factious creditor, who cares more for controversy than for his debt, to delay and harrass the substantial creditors and unnecessarily prolong the settlement of the estate

Sufficient guards are thrown around the choice of an assignee, and his administration of the bankrupt's property, to justify his being entrusted, in the first instance at least, with the duty of ascertaining what claims require further investigation and what do not. Again if any creditor felt himself agrieved by the action of the assignee in this respect, he might apply to the court for a rule upon the assignee, requiring him to take the proper action in the premises, or to allow the creditor to do so in the name of the former. The court has a supervisory control over the assignee, and when "necessary or expedient" may remove him (sec 18 B. Act)

Section 23 provides for the postponement of the proof of the claim before the election of assignee, but the only provision of the act on the subject under consideration is found in the last clause of Section 22. It reads

"The court may, on the application of the assignee, or of any creditor the bankrupt, or without any application, examine upon oath the bankrupt, or any person tendering or who has made proof of claims and may summon any person capable of giving evidence concerning such proof, or concerning the debt sought to be proved, and shall reject all claims not duly proved, or when the proof shows the claim to be founded in fraud, illegality or mistake."

This only gives a creditor a right to apply for leave to examine the bankrupt or other creditor on oath, touching any matter pertinent to his interest in the estate. The court is required "to reject all claims" of a certain character, but at whose instance is not specifically prescribed. It may be that the court of its own motion (ex mero motu), may reject a claim or may direct an enquiry concerning the legality of the same. But as between third persons, the analogies of other similar legal proceedings, as in the case of an administrator, and the speedy and economical settlement of bankrupts estates, all point to the assignee as the proper person to make the application or objection. If the contrary course were permitted there would be danger of the proceedings degenerating into a many sided, interminable squabble between the creditors, to the real benefit of no one, and the delay and injury of all concerned

[BY MAIL]

We are permitted to make extracts from a business letter received from the New York agent of Messrs Saxvier & Co dated Feb 15th as follows:

The market is so glutted with choice flour that the trade can supply themselves at prices so much below what the fancy brands are held for they will take only very limited quantities; hence it is difficult getting on. What sales have been made from this lot (880 gunnies late received) have been at $8 50 per bbl. I have found the Boston market a more ready one than this and have sent over to my agent considerable of 'Imperial' * * * So far have done as well if not better than in this market. Out of this 880 gunnies I sent direct from steamer 660 gunnies

You have done well not to send any other brand than Imperial as the market is in such state it would not sell for enough to pay cost. Imperial having a name and being wanted by the trade, can be sold in limited quantities; but I cannot hold out any great encouragement that present prices can be maintained unless there should be a change in the breadstuffs market generally

We clip the following from the Chicago Republican of the 21st ult to which paper it was telegraphed

Dr Gibbon's Dispensary,

623 KEARNEY STREET NEAR COMMERCIAL San Francisco. Established in 1854, for the treatment of Sexual and Seminal Diseases, such as Gonorrhea Gleet Stricture, Syphilis in all its forms Seminal Weakness Impotency, etc. Skin Diseases (of years standing) and Ulcerated Legs successfully treated

Horrible Diseases

How many thousands of persons, both male and female are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgence or from virus absorbed into the system! Look at their pallid cheeks and and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life. In this horrid situation they sand suffer until death closes the scene. Let parents guardians friends, attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies that they are cared for and cured before it be too late. Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs. It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places. Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans.

Seminal Weakness

Seminal Emissions the consequence of self-abuse. This solitary vice or depraved sexual indulgence is practised by the youth of both sexes to an almost unlimited extent, producing with unerring certainty the following train of morbid symptoms unless combatted by scientific medical measures viz. Sallow countenance dark spots under the eyes pain in the head ringing in the ears noise like the rustling of leaves and rattling of chariots uneasiness about the loins weakness of the limbs confused vision blunted intellect loss of confidence diffidence in approaching strangers a dislike to form new acquaintances, a disposition to shun society loss of memory hectic flushes pimples and various eruptions about the face furred tongue fetid breath coughs consumption night sweats monomania and frequently insanity. If relief be not obtained should apply immediately either in person or by letter and have a cure effected by his new and scientific mode of treating this disease which never fails of effecting a quick and radical cure. Dr G will give One Hundred Dollars to any person who will prove satisfactorily to him that all who are cured of this complaint by either of the San Francisco [illegible]
